Home Staging: I assist home sellers and real estate agents in preparing homes for sale eliminating any objections potential buyers may have before the home is listed. My expertise is in starting with what the owner already has, creating function and style in each room to achieve best market value and attract more buyers for a quicker sale. I work with all budgets, and understand the emotions involved with selling a home to assist the owners in this process, and get the best price for their home.

Redesign: A room or entire home, will make dramatic changes with all budgets, starting with what you have and love and making it better! Producing an organized, beautiful, stress free home! Creating style and function for your home that is unique to you and your family.

What this winter has taught me:

- I learned to accept what I cannot change (snow)!
- To make myself a priority
- To go with the flow and be more flexible
- To be grateful for the small things and most of all grateful for my health!

With all the unexpected and expected snow and ice, power outages etc. I was forced to be more flexible in my plans and to focus on the “opportunity” in everything.

This helped me to live more in the present moment and to spend time doing the things that were important to my wellbeing, such as doing yoga at home since I couldn't get to a class, or cooking healthy meals. Connecting with friends and neighbors and helping out where I could.

I learned to let go of expectations and go with what “is” and to appreciate what I have vs. focusing on what went wrong or what didn't happen due to the weather.

Yes, we lost power, and yes our basement flooded again even with a back- up plan...BUT our neighbors came to check on us and went out of their way to help us, as we were there to help them. Even though I was looking for a local company, Puroclean out of Philadelphia (744 South St. 215-399-9590) was so professional and helpful and did a great job of drying out our basement; they were the first ones available and I would highly recommend them.

So what did you learn? Hopefully you all found something beneficial from this winter.

Happy (Early) Spring!
